An awesome filly and I couldn't be happier with her!!! I even trained the mother who had a ton of ability where she raced in the first 2yo race of the season. However, she had an operation on her knees soon after and was never the same. I have an insight to the pedigree, hence why I even got her cheaper. The page she look better than it already is.

It's time to get into the Shooting To Win's before they become too expensive, as they'll be just like his father where they came on significantly as 3yo's and dominated. They were cheap second season and then third season you couldn't even get near them where they averaged over 200k! Proper 3yo's and she'll be one.
